The Receiving Party agrees to hold such Confidential Information in trust and confidence for the Disclosing Party and not to disclose such Confidential Information to any person, firm or enterprise, or use (directly or indirectly) any such Confidential Information for its own benefit or the benefit of any other party, unless authorized by the Disclosing Party in writing, and even then, to limit access to and disclosure of such Confidential Information to the Receiving Party's employees and consultants on a "need to know" basis only. Information shall not be considered "Confidential Information" to the extent, but only to the extent, that such information is: (i) already known to Receiving Party free of any restriction at the time it is obtained from the Disclosing Party; (ii) subsequently learned from an independent third party free of any restriction and without breach of this Agreement or any agreement with such third party; (iii) becomes publicly available through no wrongful act of the Receiving Party; (iv) independently developed by the Disclosing Party without reference to any Confidential Information; or (v) required to be disclosed pursuant to a requirement of a governmental agency or law, such as the Texas Public Information Act, so long as the Receiving Party provides the Disclosing Party with timely written prior notice of such requirements.

(b) Each Receiving Party acknowledges and agrees that, in the event of a breach or threatened breach of any of the foregoing provisions, the Disclosing Party will have no adequate remedy in damages and, accordingly, shall be entitled to injunctive relief against such breach or threatened breach; provided, however, that no specification of a particular legal or equitable remedy shall be construed as a waiver, prohibition or limitation of any legal or equitable remedies in the event of a breach hereof.

3.3 Branding, Advertising and Press Releases

(a) Company hereby grants to CLIENT a worldwide, limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable, fully paid license to use and reproduce the Company Marks for the term of this Agreement with respect to the Company logo and/or the footer logo that shall include the Eceptionist® or other Eceptionist® Affiliate logo and hyperlink to Company or such Affiliate's home page.

(b) CLIENT hereby grants to Company a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable (except as otherwise expressly provided herein), fully-paid license to use those portions of the CLIENT Content and Additional Content which are delivered by CLIENT to Company to the extent necessary for Company to develop and implement any Change Orders or other services pursuant to this Agreement. Company shall not use such CLIENT Content for any other purpose. All CLIENT Content shall be deemed CLIENT Property (as defined in Section 3.6) for purposes of this Agreement.

(c) Except as provided above in this Section 3.3, neither party shall acquire a right to use, and shall not use without the other party's prior written consent, in each instance, the names, characters, logos, symbols, artwork, designs, trade names, trademarks or service marks of the other party in any advertising, publicity, public announcement, press release or promotion, or in any manner tending to imply an endorsement of the other party's products or services, and each party shall maintain all copyright, trademark, service mark or other proprietary notices on such party's products or services and otherwise comply with such party's reasonable quality control requirements. Each party agrees not to unreasonably withhold or delay consent to the extent the other party is required to disclose or announce the other party's name under applicable law.

3.4 Ownership of Company Property

CLIENT acknowledges that, except for CLIENT Property as defined hereunder, Company owns all right, title and interest in and to all software and other technology, including, without limitation, source codes, business rules, process flow, object codes, operating instructions, writings, interfaces, information, data, formulas, algorithms, models, drawings, photographs, design concepts, standard templates and desktop icons for the System, Features, Service and Website, and in all other documentation developed for or relating to the System, Features, Service and Website, and in all data and other information of any kind, together with all modifications, revisions, changes, copies, partial copies, translations, compilations, partial copies and derivative works, all of which together shall constitute the "Company Property." Except as expressly provided in this Agreement, CLIENT shall not sell, transfer, publish, disclose, display, license or otherwise make available to others any part of such Company Property or copies thereof. All Intellectual Property Rights and all other property rights of any nature in the Company Property are, shall be and shall remain in Company. The Company Property is and shall remain the sole and exclusive property of Company, with Company having the right to obtain and to hold in its name, patents, copyright registrations or trademark or service mark registrations or such other protection as may be appropriate to the subject matter, and any extensions and renewals thereof. To the extent applicable, CLIENT agrees, at Company's expense, to execute such further documents, and perform such other reasonable acts, as Company may reasonably deem necessary, useful or convenient to evidence or perfect the rights of Company defined in this Section 3.4.

3.5 Ownership of CLIENT Property

Company acknowledges that CLIENT owns all right, title and interest in and to material, if any, independently developed or obtained by CLIENT which is submitted for access by Licensed Users of the Service ("CLIENT Property"). Except as expressly provided in this Agreement, Company shall not sell, transfer, publish, disclose, display, license or otherwise make available to others any part of such CLIENT Property or copies thereof. 3.7 Right of Injunction

The parties acknowledge that a breach by either party of this Article 3 may give rise to irreparable injury to the other, inadequately compensable in damages. Accordingly, the parties hereby consent to the obtaining by the other party of injunctive relief against the breach or threatened breach of the undertakings of the parties contained in this Article 3. The parties further agree that such an order so enjoining a party may be issued pending final determination thereof without the requirement to post bond. PART 3 – ONBOARDING SERVICES

The following professional services will be provided in conjunction with onboarding CLIENT to the Eceptionist service. The fees defined in Schedule 2 are based upon the assumptions and the scope of services defined in this section. If there are additional services that are required to implement this project that are outside of the scope defined in this section (and other sections in this Agreement) then this work can be defined and implemented under a Change Order as defined in the Agreement.

Environments

CLIENT will get access to at least 2 different EceptionistCX Software as a Service (“SaaS”) environments including Production and Test.

Schedule 1 – Service Specifications

Timeline

Company has assumed an onboarding timeline from project kickoff to “go live” of approximately 1 to 2 months. Note, this can be expanded or compressed but this assumption is based upon a typical deployment of the solution based upon the scope of work defined in this Agreement. If the timeline were to go over this period, the amount of effort could potentially increase.

General Implementation Services

As part of onboarding CLIENT onto the EceptionistCX services, there are some general services that Eceptionist will provide as part of the onboarding. These services are included below:

Notification Review, Confirmation & Configuration

Within this task, the Company team lead will introduce the concept of system generated notifications and will review the various types of notifications that can be turned on in the system, e.g. user notifications, patient notifications, etc... Notifications may be triggered based on request status or other user actions. EceptionistCX is equipped with numerous default notification mechanisms that can be activated during the configuration process. It is rare that a customer will choose to activate them all. In some cases, a customer may choose to go live with limited notifications and expand their use post user training and onboarding. The final deliverable of this phase is a notifications document that defines which notifications will be activated in the software at go-live, the triggers that initiate a notification, the recipient of a notification and the default text that comprises the notification.

Action Handler Status Review and Configuration

Company will introduce the topic of the Action Handler Matrix (AHM) as part or after the referral/request workflow design but simultaneous to other discussions. The Action Handler Matrix is a functional matrix that defines in detail the life cycle of a referral/request and the different types of referrals/requests that will be managed in the system. There may be one or more AHM's incorporated into any given implementation depending on the level of complexity required to manage referrals/requests in an environment. The configuration of the Action Handler Matrix is critical to building a streamlined, efficient, and intelligent referral/request process for all different types of referrals and requests. In creating the AHM, Company will guide CLIENT to (1) define all the statuses within the lifecycle of a referral/request from open to closed, (2) which user roles will interact with a referral/request at every status (3) which actions a given user role will have access to at each status (4) at which statuses a referral/requests will be viewable on the queue of a user role. The final deliverable of this phase will be the default Action Handler template that will be used for the CLIENT group organization within Eceptionist. A completed AHM is a multi-layered pathway that demonstrates the lifecycle of a referral/request. Over time, a client will be able to modify an existing AHM as well as add new AHM's.

Work Queue (Work List & Status List) Review and Configuration

Service requests in EceptionistCX can be managed from a variety of screens, of which each serves a different purpose and may therefore function in a slightly different manner. By default, the request management screens include:

- Drafts Queue
- Incoming Queue
- Status Queue
- My Requests Queue

Within this task, the Company team leads will introduce the default request management screens and work with the Client to determine if alterations to these views are required. Client specific changes to these screens may include the addition/removal of columns and addition/removal of filters. Within the scope of this project, Company has included time to customize one “draft” queue, one “status” queue and one “my requests” queue as well as time to customize one “incoming” queue. In some implementations, this process may identify the need for the configuration of additional screens beyond what is included by default. For example, it may be determined that the viewing needs of the incoming request queue for a requesting provider are quite different from the viewing needs of the incoming request queue for a service coordinator or specialist. In such cases, two separate incoming queues would be configured in the system and then made available to the correct user role via the users' permissions management functions. The final deliverable of this phase is a specification document that defines the list of request management screens that will be made available in the software, the columns that will be visible on each request queue, the filters and filter rules that will be available for sorting requests on each screen, and the rules that define which requests will be viewable on each screen and to whom.

White Label Configuration

Company will provide Client with an organizational landing page that can be white labeled for Client. Company will provide Client with a landing page for each organization (i.e., Client customer) that is added into the EceptionistCX service. Note, white labeling includes incorporating Company's logo and a label but does not include changing the layout of the EceptionistCX platform or service.

Schedule 1 – Service Specifications

Company Project Management

Company will have a team lead assigned to the project over the duration of the implementation. This person will lead the project from a project manager perspective and will coordinate all Company resources that are required to support the project.

Reference Tables

Company will load minimal reference table data for Client into the Exceptionist database. Specifically, Company will provide Client with data templates that it can use to gather the data as it relates to the relevant reference table data that will be loaded into the Exceptionist database by Company.

Existing Event Data Migration

Company has assumed no data migration of existing events for this project.

Integration

Company has assumed there will be no integration required during the implementation. Company is happy to provide integration services during the Term and will provide a separate quote if this is required once Company receives more information around the third party systems that Client wants Company to do the integration with.

Reports

Company has assumed no custom reports. CLIENT will get access to all of the canned reports related to the functions in ExceptionistCX that Client is using. Please note that Client will not get access to Power BI reports within ExceptionistCX. Note, this is something that is possible but there would be additional fees to support this.

Training

Company has assumed a “train the trainer” approach for this project. Company has assumed 3 days of training effort for this project of which 2 days are allocated to web training with the remaining days allocated to training preparation, web-based, training video and implementation related training. Please note that we have assumed that we will create a self-learning video that walks through the core use cases defined for the implementation.
